

La Banque Hotel Opens in Homewood

The La Banque Hotel wants you to say “Oui” to weekend getaways, corporate retreats and hosting meetings in the Chicago Southland. The La Banque Hotel in downtown Homewood opened its doors to the public on June 15th, 2015.

Built in an old bank building and offering 18 luxurious rooms, a 24-hour fitness center and La Voûte, a French contemporary restaurant that specializes in farm to table cuisine, La Banque Hotel offers a Chicago experience, just beyond the city limits.

La Banque (French for the bank) offers a French twist on a bank theme. The hotel features a vault, signed by J. Edgar Hoover and utilizes old safety deposit boxes for a feature wall behind the bar in La Voûte (French for The Vault).

“This is an exciting time for the Chicago Southland,” said

Jim Garrett, President / CEO of the Chicago Southland CVB. “La Banque gives the Chicago Southland an inviting and unique hotel that not only embraces its customers but also rivals anything you might find in Chicago. With easier access to interstates, commuter rail lines and free parking, I encourage everyone to visit downtown Homewood and experience the added sparkle to our region.”

La Banque, owned in conjunction with Ravisloe Country Club, presents a unique opportunity for meeting planners and leisure travelers to have access to a top-rated public Donald Ross Golf Course. “It’s been a long time coming... I hope this is the beginning, the basis for something new and exciting for Homewood,” said Claude Gendreau, owner of La Banque Hotel.
